HOW GUNPOWDER IS MADE.

The Part That Each of the Three Ingredients in the Explosive Plays.

Gunpowder has steadily developed as mechanical skill constructed better and better weapons in which to use it, until today it has reached a perfection of manufacture for various purposes which allows its effects to be foretold in any weapon, even to the time it takes a grain to burn and to the distance it will drive a shot.

Roger Bacon's gunpowder was made of saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal. Saltpeter is chemically called niter and is a natural product found in the earth in different parts of the world, chiefly in India and China. Sulphur, too, is found in a natural state in many volcanic countries, like Sicily, while, as is well known, charcoal is made from wood or woody substances by heating them almost to a burning heat in an airtight vessel, thus driving off everything in them but carbon.

Saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal are still the only ingredients of the gunpowder in common use, although a new gunpowder made of different materials is undergoing successful experiment. A mixture of saltpeter and charcoal alone would form an explosive and sulphur is added chiefly to make it plastic or capable of being pressed into cakes and shapes. All three ingredients have to be purified by the most careful chemical skill before they are combined. Then an exact proportion of each has to be measured out according to the kind of powder to be made.

For the gunpowder generally used you would find in every 100 pounds, if you could separate the ingredients, 75 pounds of saltpeter, 15 pounds of charcoal and 10 pounds of sulphur, but it would be almost impossible to separate the ingredients, for they are not merely mixed together, but they are ground and rolled and stirred and pressed together by special machines until they are almost sufficiently united to form a single new substance.

This mixing process is called trituration, and the powder is thus made into the form of big flat cakes, called press cakes, and then broken up and screened into grains of special sizes, or ground to the fine powder used for shotguns and revolvers. The large grained powders are still further stirred together until the grains become highly glazed, and these are called cannon powders. A lighted match may be held to a grain of cannon powder and it will be found almost impossible to set it on fire, but once ignited it flashes off very suddenly and violently.—Lieutenant John M. Elliott in St. Nicholas.

AN AMUSING DEBATE.

The Subject Was Serious Enough, but the Situation Was Comical.

When, in the old days of trouble between the English and French, there was talk of sending Admiral Hawke to sea to keep watch over the enemy's fleet, there occurred a notable interview. It was November. The weather was stormy and dangerous for vessels and the government was not agreed as to sending him out.

Mr. Pitt, who was in bed with gout, was obliged to receive those who had business with him in his chamber. This room had two beds and no fire. The Duke of Newcastle came to him to consider the sending out of the fleet, and had scarcely entered the room when he cried out, shivering all over with cold: "How is this? No fire?"

"No," said Mr. Pitt. "When I have the gout, I cannot bear one."

The duke, wrapped in his cloak, took a seat by the invalid's bedside and began talking, but he found himself unable to endure the cold.

"Pray allow me!" he exclaimed suddenly, and, without taking off his cloak, he buried himself in the other bed and continued the conversation. He was strongly opposed to risking the fleet in the November gales. Mr. Pitt was absolutely resolved that it should put to sea, and both argued the matter with much warmth. It was the only warmth, indeed, in the room.

"I am positively determined that the fleet shall sail," said Pitt, accompanying his words with the most lively gesticulations.

"It is impossible! It will perish!" said the duke, with equal emphasis.

At the moment the discussion waxed hottest another dignitary of the realm came in and found it difficult to keep his countenance at the sight of two ministers deliberating on a matter of so grave importance from such a novel situation.

The fleet did put to sea, and Mr. Pitt's judgment proved to be right. The enemy was crippled and a signal advantage gained.—Youth's Companion.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

A woman's headaches may come from several causes. She may have a headache arising from nervousness, or from digestive disturbances, just the same as a man might suffer from the same reasons. Nine cases in ten, however, her headaches come from disorders peculiar to her sex. Possibly the apparent cause of the headache will be nervousness or indigestion, while the cause of these is not thought of. The organs distinctly feminine are more vital than any other organs in a woman's body. Any trouble of these affects the whole body. It may show itself in the symptoms which are characteristic of a dozen disorders. Thousands of times women have been treated for the disorders thought to be indicated by these symptoms, when the real trouble was much deeper and more serious. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was compounded for the sole purpose of relieving womankind of the aches and pains very commonly considered the uncomfortable inheritance of her sex. It cures where really good physicians have failed. Thousands of women have testified that after taking treatment from several physicians without benefit, the "Favorite Prescription" cured them completely and quickly. It has been used for over thirty years, and has an unbroken record of success. The afflicted woman will find immediate relief and ultimate cure in the "Favorite Prescription." ## BLUFF SENATOR STEWART.

He Calls Thurston to Task for False Assertions

Senator Thurston of Nebraska, who is now in the employ of the gold men, in a speech at Madison, Wisconsin, said that Bryan previous to his nomination had been employed by the silver ring and that he stood ready to prove that the bonanza syndicate had employed and paid many of the leading advocates of silver. Senator Stewart was shown the statement of the Nebraska Senator and as he read he grew white with indignation.

"It is a — lie; I know it to be false, and what is more, I believe Senator Thurston knew it to be when he said it," was his vigorous comment. "But wait a minute. The slander must be met with the same directness with which it has been put forth. I will issue a challenge to Senator Thurston to produce his proof."

The Senator sat down at his desk and dictated the following open letter to Senator Thurston:

"Hon. John M. Thurston, Omaha, Neb.—Sir: The Washington Post of this morning publishes a speech delivered by you at Madison, Wis., July 31st, in which you are reported as using the following language: 'The proprietors of the big bonanza mines have found it profitable to keep a large number of lecturers and other spokesmen on the road preaching to the people. Among the many who have thus been employed and carried on the pay rolls of the big bonanzas for a number of years is William J. Bryan of Nebraska, paid agent and spokesman for the free silver combine. In the city of Omaha, where William J. Bryan does editorial work, the Omaha Bee has made the specific charge editorially time and time again. It has never been met. I say as an American citizen, having at heart the welfare of the people, that a man posing as an advocate of the down-trodden masses of his countrymen, holding a 'crown of thorns' in one hand and the bugaboo 'cross of gold' in the other, owes it as a duty to every man, woman and child in this country to say whether it is true. I do say, my countrymen, I know whereof I speak, that for three years and a half, without regard to Bryan, there has been a selected corps of orators and writers, paid employees of the silver producers, spreading their literature over this country from one end to the other telling the farmer that he will have more for his wheat, the laboring man that he will have more for his work.'

"If you are correctly reported you have grossly misrepresented facts. There is no silver bonanza organization or any other organization of silver mine owners contributing money to the cause of silver, and if there has been any one employed to make speeches for silver I am totally ignorant of the fact. I do not believe it is true, and do not believe you can name a man who has been so employed. If you know facts give us the names. As to contributions for the circulation of silver literature, they have been small, and they have been paid to the American Bimetallic League up to within the last few months, since which time contributions have been made to the American Bimetallic Union. These contributions have come from all sections of the country alike. These organizations can account for all money received and the use made of it.

"But the gravity of your statement is the charge that Mr. Bryan has been employed by silver mine owners to advocate in speeches the cause of silver. I have every reason to believe that this charge is absolutely false and a gross slander, and I call upon you to substantiate the charge by proof, or withdraw it at once. The commercial press has falsely declared that the silver movement was sustained by 'silver barons' and by large contributions of money from silver mine owners. It may be that your information is from that source and that you have no other. But that kind of proof will not do. The charge is false and you have made it your own responsibility, and the country will not be satisfied without clear proof or the withdrawal of the slander. You may mock at the poverty of the silverites, as the gold press is in the habit of doing, but you shall not slander them with imputations.

"I await your reply and in the meantime have given a copy of this letter to the press. Yours, very truly,

"WILLIAM M. STEWART."

Your Roy Won't Live a Month.

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store.

A Narrow Escape.

Yesterday morning while S. G. Luckily the blow he received knocked him from under the falling shelves and probably saved him from severe, if not fatal, injury. Had the heavy shelving caught Mr. Porteous, it would have borne him to the floor, and he would have been crushed. He was quite severely bruised but will be all right in a day or two.

FOR FUSION.

The Friends of Silver Should Form a Triple Alliance.

The Carson Appeal says: "The friends of silver in Nevada should unite in a 'triple alliance' such as was welded at St. Louis. Democrats, Silver men and Populists are fighting for a common cause, and Nevada should fall in line with the general trend of national politics and form an alliance with all of the three parties in line. Let the Democrats, Silver men and Populists each select a Presidential elector to be voted for jointly and when elected their votes should be cast for Bryan. The Regents of the University should be divided the same way, there being two to elect, and the party not nominating a Regent could select a candidate for Supreme Judge.

As Fine Cherries as Can be Shown in Any Country.

Tommy Biggs gave the JOURNAL man a large bunch of beautiful cherries last night plucked from a tree on Mr. Conover's place on Fourth street. They are of the black Tartarian species and are as large and finely flavored as the best cherries produced anywhere in California. What is most remarkable about these cherries is the fact that they were picked from a tree that bore two crops of fruit last season and these are from the second crop this year. Last year Mr. Conover's family had an abundance of the fruit for their own use, gave a quantity away and sold ill worth all from the one tree. Had it not been for the late hail storm the product this year would have been much larger.

Funeral Notice.

The undersigned begs to intimate that on November 4th next at 2 p. m. from the undertaking parlors of G. Hoskins, he will bury all that is left of the remains of Wm. McKinley, Republican nominee for President.

The place of interment will be at the headwaters of Salt creek. He has spared no pains in the selection of pallbearers, having selected them from mostly every State in the Union, the latest acquisition being Mr. A. S. McClure, Republican nominee for Congress, in Mr. McKinley's own State, Ohio. Mr. Hogan has also secured the services of Mr. Hoskins' band to play the "Dead March."

FREAK FACTORIES

Showmen Have No Trouble in Providing New Attractions.

"How do you manage to find new freaks and curiosities?" was the question asked of the manager of a traveling show that had pitched its tent in a London suburb.

"Don't have to find them," was the Jaconic response. "They find us. The freak business is as regularly established as any other and has its wholesale and retail firms, traveling salesmen, brokers, price lists, factories."

"Factories?" queried the reporter, aghast.

"Why, certainly, factories, of course.

The freak business is divided into about three varieties—foreign, domestic and fake.

"In the first class the collectors travel all over the world in search of rarities, but the very best freaks come from India and the Malay peninsula. In these countries there are people who breed freaks. They buy young children and amputate and deform them while their boys are soot by all manners of means.

"They are constantly on the outlook for genuine natural freaks, and in those lands the birth of a freak occurs very frequently. The headquarters of this business is at Singapore.

"Then there are any number of men who devote themselves to the discovering and placing of freaks of all kinds and varieties, and there is scarcely a day goes by that we do not receive packages of photographs and illustrated circulars from some freak merchant or other.

"Of course there are the faked freak men—a perfect host in themselves. If the proprietor of some little show needs an additional attraction and does not have the money to hire something good —for, like everything else, freaks have their price—he can get something for little money that will serve his purpose.

"The real, genuine live freaks always command high prices and travel all over the world in order to exhibit themselves. Most of them have regular routes mapped out by their advance agents, just like theatrical companies, and as they only appear at a place at long intervals they never get stale, and sometimes make bigger hits on their second or third appearance than on their first."

—London Mail.

Quick Work Done in Handling the Fruit on the New York Wharf.

The pineapple season lasts from about March 1 to about Aug. 1. New York gets pineapples from the Florida keys, from the West Indies and from the Ba-leares. Some come in steamers, some in sailing vessels. Pineapples from Havana, by steamer are brought in barrels and crates. Pineapples brought in sailing vessels are brought mostly in bulk —not thrown in loosely, however, but sandy sowed, so that as many as possible may be got into a vessel.

On the wharves here pineapples brought in bulk are handled with great celerity. Men in the hold of the vessel fill bushel baskets with them and hand the baskets up on deck, where they are passed along and set up on the string piece of the wharf. The trucks in which they are to be carted away are backed down handy. A box of suitable height, and which is as long as the truck is wide, is placed at the end of the truck.
A man standing near on the wharf lifts the baskets from the stringpiece and sets them up on this box. Two men stand at the box, each with a basket of pineapples in front of him, to count the pines and throw them into the truck, which has racks at the sides; lengths of board are placed across the end, as the load rises. Two men stand in the truck to level the fruit as it comes to them.

The two counters are experts, and they work with great rapidity and steadiness, keeping pineapples going all the time.

Each man picks up two pineapples at a time, one with each hand, and gives them a toss into the truck, both men counting as they go along, one after another, "one," "two," "three," "four,"
"five," and so on up, each man strike-ing two pineapples. When they strike "one hundred," the tallyman makes a straight chalk mark on the end of the truck; that stands for 200 pineapples.

While he is making the chalk mark the other counter keeps right on, and he may have got up to "two" or "three" again, for it takes a second or two to make the chalk mark, but by that time the tally-man is at it again chiming in with "four," and away they go together again, counting up rapidly toward the hundred. If a man on the load finds a specked pine, he drops it over the side of the truck into a basket that stands there, and says: "One!" The tallyman tosses in one without counting, to keep the count good.

As fast as the counters empty the baskets they push them off the box, and the man at the stringpiece sets up a full one in its place and the counters keep the pineapples going without cessation.

At the fifth hundred the tallyman makes a mark diagonally across the four he has already made, in the commonly used method of tallying freight; but these five marks here stand for 1,000 pineapples. On a double truck there are usually carried from 4,000 to 5,000 pineapples; on a single truck, from 2,000 to 3,000. —New York Sun.

There can be no doubt that the announcement of Alsace-Lorraine has been the fundamental cause of European disturbance and apprehension during the last 25 years. Cynics may scoff at sentiment, but the predominant feeling of a great nation counts for something, if not everything, in calculations for the preservation of peace. There are justifiable and unjustifiable causes of war.
The difference between jingoism and patriotism is that jingoism will go to war whether for a good or a bad cause, while patriotism will only undertake it for a good cause. It is a huge blunder to impose terms of peace fundamentally unjust, leaving a grievance that enlists an ever-growing sympathy. Generosity and forbearance toward a vanquished enemy, especially if that enemy be a great nation, is the best policy.

Germany acted on this principle after she had defeated Austria in 1866. She did not take an inch of territory, and
patriotism. It was, therefore, possible to make an ally of Austria, and she became one. Unfortunately, after her conquest of France, she committed the blunder of annexing French territory.
The military experts were called in to declare that this was a strategic necessity, and, leaving aside the question of inhabitants declared to be of German origin, but who were devoted to France, some 600,000 pure Frenchmen in Lorraine were passed under the German yoke.
Annexations are only successful when the victor has no respect to small countries, such as Poland or Denmark. France is a powerful enough nation to resist and ultimately to revenge or to remedy the wrong. She bides her time.
There is only one permanent sentiment which unites all parties in France, that is the desire to recover Alsace-Lorraine.
—National Review.

The Alsace-Lorraine Trouble.

There can be no doubt that the an-
the fundamental cause of European disturbance and apprehension during the last 25 years. Cynics may scoff at sentiment, but the predominant feeling of a
not everything, in calculations for the preservation of peace. There are justifiable and unjustifiable causes of war.
The difference between jingoism and
patriotism is that jingoism will go to
war whether for a good or a bad cause,
for a good cause. It is a huge blunder
and forbearance toward a vanquished
great nation, is the best policy.

Germany acted on this principle after
did not take an inch of territory, and
to make an ally of Austria, and she be-
blunder of annexing French territory.
The military experts were called in to
origin, but who were devoted to France,
some 600,000 pure Frenchmen in Lorraine
were passed under the German yoke.
Annexations are only successful when
the victor has no respect to small countries, such as Poland or Denmark. France
is a powerful enough nation to resist
remedy the wrong. She bides her time.
There is only one permanent sentiment
which unites all parties in France, that
is the desire to recover Alsace-Lorraine.
—National Review.
